The Mystic Tradition

The world's major religions were founded by people who employed mystic procedures to reach the level of enlightenment that enabled them to grasp the principles that have been passed down to us as religious systems.

A full comprehension of those systems is not possible unless we also engage in mystic practices which will unfold our own spiritual potential so that we may also fully grasp those spiritual principles.

Religion has primarily been presented to people according to the exoteric or outer court information. This information includes the basics on how to perform prayer and other rituals, basic tenets and emotion-laden stories (myths) which convey moral principles.

In the outer court, people are encouraged to listen to sermons about God and His prophets and to talk about the love of God and the love of His prophets. Few, however, are encouraged to experience God or to actually function according to the methodology employed by the various prophets. Such work is the business of the esoteric or inner court.

The Quran states: "They know the outer meaning of the life of the lower world, but of the Hereafter they are heedless."

While in the outer court people argue over such absurdities as "my religion is better than yours" or "my God is the true god and yours isn't," the inner court promotes unity because those who reach the inner court witness that unity and realize that god has always conveyed one primary message, a message that appears to be different because it came to men and women in different geographical locations and who were of different racial backgrounds.

Thus in speaking to people via their environment, God seemed to convey different messages.

People who reach the inner court realize that the principles are the same across time and geography even though those principles may be contained in different "bottles" bearing different labels. But the essence of the content is the same.

People who reached the deep religious wisdom of the inner court or mystic tradition are called yogis in the east, sufis in Arabia, shamans in so-called nature-based religions, Essenes in the Judaic tradition as well as Qaballists and many other titles.

Prophet Muhammad received the revelation of the Quran during an intense meditation session in the cave of Hira during the month of Ramadan. Islamic tradition says that the angel Gabriel appeared to him and told him to read. During the remainder of Muhammad's 23 years of life, the revelation that was given to him on that night came up in "main memory" as life conditions served to activate it.

A great portion of the revelation Muhammad received concerns the great mystic wisdom. However, few Muslims today are aware of the deep spiritual knowledge and terminology of mysticism and thus they miss the meaning of the majority of the Quran.

A study of the history of Islam after Muhammad provides the reason why so much of the spiritual wisdom of Islam was lost.

Until the end of his mission, the Meccan Arabs opposed Muhammad vigorously. It was not until Muhammad marched into Mecca with a massive army that the Meccans "submitted" to Islam, accepting Islam at sword point. They had neither studied Islam nor come to believe the teachings of Muhammad because of spiritual experiences or insight. They accepted the army and never got to understand the force behind Muhammad's mission. So the Quran says of the Arabs, "Say not that you believe for faith has not entered your hearts. Rather say that you submit."

When Muhammad died many of the former enemies of Islam became leaders of the Muslim ummat (community). One example is that of Mu'awiyya, the son of Muhammad's bitterest enemy, Abu Sufyan. During the khalifat of Ali (Muhammad's nephew and true successor), Mu'awiyya declared himself khalifah and set up shop in Syria. Mu'awiyya's rebellion reverberates today as the division between the Sunni and Shiite sects. The Sunnis were those who adhered to Mu'awiyya and the Shiites were those who adhered to the khalifahship of Ali.

When the Prophet died, Ali was supposed to assume the leadership, but while Ali and Fatimah, Muhammad's daughter, were burying the Prophet, the Meccan Arabs got together and appointed Abu Bakr as the khalifah because they felt they could control Abu Bakr due to his advanced age. After Abu Bakr died, 'Umar became the leader. He was murdered, possibly by followers of Ali. Then Uthman became the khalifah. He also was murdered, during salaah in the mosque. Finally, Ali assumed the leadership, but many of the Meccans, including the Prophet's wife, 'Aisha, opposed his leadership and civil strife broke out. Ultimately, Ali was murdered.

The false successors of Muhammad believed that with the new combined armies of the Meccans and Ansars (who were with Muhammad in Medina) they could take over much of the known world and capture war booty from Africa, Asia and Europe. On the other hand, Ali and his adherents viewed Islam as primarily a spiritual force for the good of the world. The materialists sought to keep Ali from power at all cost.

Like the Prophet himself, Ali practiced the esoteric mystic science that's today called Sufism. The Sufis wore wool mantles as a sign that they exercised complete control over their inner body heat (salaah) and could make themselves cool in the hot desert, even while wearing a hot wool mantle.

O thou wrapped up in thy mantle,
Arise and warn!
Thy Lord magnify,
Thy raiment purify,
Pollution shun!
And show not favor, seeking worldly gain!

-- Quran 74:1-6

The mantle worn by Sufis in Arabia is similar to a thin sheet garment worn by Tibetan Buddhist monks in the Himalayan mountains near China. The difference is that the Tibetans wear the sheet mantle as a sign of their ability to make themselves warm in a cold climate while the Sufis wear wool as a sign of their ability to make themselves cool in a hot climate.

This is an example of the essential unity among practitioners of the inner court mystic tradition across geographic distances.

Yoga

Yoga is a Sanskrit word that means "union." It comprises a set of practices designed to bring about union between (wo)man and God. In Arabic, yoga is "Tauhid."

Tauhid is the yoga of Islam or the means by which the Muslim is to achieve taqwa (God realization) via unity with the Divine Supreme Being.

Say: He is Allah Unified
Allah is the Eternal, Absolute [Samad].
He does not procreate nor was He procreated.
And there can never be anything equal to Him.

-- Quran Surah 112

One of the goals of yoga meditation is to achieve the superconscious state that is called "samadhi." This is the same as the Arabic word "samad." This superconscious state results in union (i.e., "yoga") between the personal mind and the divine mind. When the initiate obtains samad she realizes that all that is is simply Allah altering the manifestation of His energy in such a manner that the illusion of separate objects and beings temporarily appear. But their underlying basis is Allah, i.e., the energy of The (Al) Force (Ilah).

Nothing really has been procreated or begotten because all everything is Allah and Allah has never been begotten. "He neither begets nor is He begotten (112:3)."

The practice of yoga includes meditation, chanting words of power (mantas), postures (asanas), astrology, singing of special songs, special sexual procedures to achieve enlightenment, raising up the inner energy called kundalini -- all of which result in the union of the personal consciousness (jiva) with the All-Consciousness (Brahman). These practices comprise the true core of Al-Islam's inner court.

Meditation

The word meditation in the Quran has been mistranslated "reflect" in most English translations of the Quran. In many places the Quran states, "Here are signs for those who meditate."

Meditation is the method used to link the personal consciousness with the Divine Consciousness.

Mantras

A mantra is a word of power that is used to "download" the divine attribute that's associated with a particular mantra. In the Quran, mantras are called "dhikrs." Mantras are words of power in that they do not convey meaning, they convey power. These words on power are called kalimaat (words or letters) in the Quran.

Then Adam learned letters from his Lord.

-- Quran 2:37

The repetition of such kalimats is the practice of dhikr. The Egyptian word for words of power is "heka." This is written "haqqa" in the Quran and is usually translated "truth" in such verses as "Allah created the heavens and the earth with the truth [haqqa]."

He created the heavens and the earth with the Haqqi.

-- Quran 39:5

But what does this mean? Surah 69 of the Quran suggests that people would be misinformed of what the Haqqa truly is: "The Haqqa! What is the Haqqa? And what will convey to you just what the Haqqa is" (69:1-3).

Allah created the universe by means of a Logos or Word of Power (Haqqa). The process is discussed in the Bible, St. John, where it says, "In the beginning was the word and the word was with god and the word was God." John says, "all things were created by him, i.e., by the word or Logos.

Allah says "Be and it becomes." This is the function of a word of power (Logos, Haqqa, Mantra or Heka).

The divine mantra carries the same vibration as God Himself for God is an energy gestalt and all energy vibrates and everything that vibrates also creates a sound. And if you can create the sound, you can create the energy field (spirit or deity) associated with the sound. So in chanting a word of power you are activating in yourself the God faculty or characteristic and power of the being (God) associated with the sound.

This sound then transforms your consciousness into a replica of the divine attribute associated with the sound vibration. The Quran says, "Allah will never cease to change your forms again and again in forms that you know not."

Mantras are the "names" Adam used to make the angels prostrate in Surah 2:31 of the Quran.

The components of the mantras are the letters themselves. In Sanskrit there are 50 letters which form the elements of the yogic mantra system. These 50 sound powers are codified in the Quran as 50,000 years.

The angels and the spirit ascend unto Him in a Day the measure whereof is (as) fifty thousand years.

-- Quran 70:4

There are 28 letters in the Arabic language. They accord with the 28 constellations of Taoism. There is a 29th letter (Hamza) which is actually the same as Alif (the letter A).

The yogis teach that the original sound of the breath is "Humsah." They say that the natural sound of inhalation is "Hum" and exhalation is "sah." This "humsah" is called "the swan." It actually conceals the Egyptian deities (principles) Hu and Sa which stand for divine will and consciousness.

Fourteen Mystic letters (muqatta'aat) are featured preceding 29 Surahs of the Quran. These 14 letters comprise the primary mantric system in Islam.

Repetition of a mantra in a trance state gives the mantra the power to transform your spirit and create you anew in "a form that you know not." Mantic repetition is called "jappa" in yoga and "Dhkr" in Islam.

Astrology

The root religious science is astrology. There are several branches of astrology including medical, natal, predictive, horary, financial, political (mundane) and spiritual.

Astrology is a cosmological language system that provides a holistic view of man and creation.

The modern scholars respect astronomy, but have relegated astrology to a "pseudo-science." Many laypeople accept that view without having conducted the slightest study of astrology. They have merely accepted the prejudices of the "scholars" without conducting any investigation of their own.

Astronomy and astrology were originally one and the same. All the great astronomers were also astrologers. While astronomy provides knowledge of the physical movement and gravitational affects of celestial bodies, astrology is necessary to understand their behavioral (i.e., spiritual) effects.

As religion and science were once united and were then split apart, so also were astronomy and astrology one interdependent spiritual-science system.

Split not up your Way (Diyin) into sects.

-- Quran

The influence of astrology on religion is evidenced in the emphasis upon the numbers seven and twelve. Seven is the number representing the seven "personal planets" of our solar system and twelve is the number representing the 12 signs. The seven personal planets are Sun, Moon, Mercury, Venus, Mars, Jupiter and Saturn. The 12 signs are the well-known signs of the zodiac.

We have placed above you seven paths
The seven oft-repeated.
Allah created the seven heavens

The 12 zodiacal signs in religion is encoded as the 12 disciples of Jesus, the 12 tribes of Ishmael and Israel and as the 12 wives of the Prophet Muhammad.

The seven chakras of yoga radiate the energies of the seven planets and they are often alluded to when the scripture speaks of "seven heavens."

Throughout the Quran astrological principles are alluded to.

They ask them concerning the New Moons.
Say: they are signs for the humanity

--Quran 2:189

The New Moon signs refer to the mass or global effect the angles made by the New Moon to the other planets has upon large numbers of people or regions. For example, when the Exxon Valdeze crashed down some years ago, spilling oil across the beaches, the New Moon made a quincunx (150 degree) angle to Neptune, the planet ruling the ocean and also ruling oil. The spilling of the oil from the Valdeze had effect on a global level, not only upon the physical ocean, but upon the oil industry, upon life in the region and upon shipping. Interestingly, the Valdeze captain was said to have been intoxicated and Neptune also rules over alcoholic beverages and drugs.

The hard angles such as inconjuncts (150o), squares (90o) and oppositions (180o) portend difficult effects from the New Moons.

By the stars they are guided

-- Holy Quran 16:16

The above verse clearly indicates that humans are guided and directed by the stars. This refers not only to pilots of ships, but more so to initiates who can read the messages of the stars and planets.

And the Sun and Moon are joined together.

-- Quran 75:9

The above verse refers to the conjunction of the Sun and Moon or the period in which they are 0o apart. Within spiritual work, the ida nadi is regarded as lunar and the pingala is regarded as solar. In kundalini work, the initiate develops the ability to unite the energy of the two at the brow of his forehead (3rd eye) which results in his going into a deep trance. That is what is meant by the sight becoming dazed.

The union of the ida and pingala nadis at the brow (ajna chakra) is important in spiritual work in various systems around the world. For example, the ancient Egyptians referred to these two nadis as Uatchet (pingala) and Nekhebet (ida).

During embalming ceremonies, the priest states:

The goddess Uatchet cometh unto thee in the form of the living Uraeus, to anoint thy head with their flames. She riseth up on the left side of thy head, and she shineth from the right side of thy temples without speech; they rise up on thy head during each and every hour of the day, even as they do for their father Ra, and through them the terror which thou inspirest in the holy spirits is increased, and because Uatchet and Nekhebet rise up on thy head, and because thy brow becometh the portion of thy head whereon they establish themselves, even as they do upon the brow of Ra, and because they never leave thee, awe of thee striketh into the souls which are made perfect.

The "living Uraeus" is the ajna chakra which is represented by the Egyptians as the snake (kundalini) protruded from a tiara around the forehead. "She shineth from the right side of thy temples without speech" because the right brain hemisphere is speechless. It is the seat of visual or graphic communication. When these two nadis (Uatchet and Nekhebet) are joined at the brow, the initiate (so-called mummy) is able to function as a "spirit-soul." This passage also deals with the principles of zodiacal hours, for which see my "Fitrah Astrology I: The 14 Kau of Ra."

So nay, I swear by the ruddy glow of sunset and the night and it's homing and the Moon in its fullness, ye shall surely travel from stage to stage.

- Quran 84:16-19

The full moon is one of the best times to meditate to reach deep trance. It also affords the meditator the possibility of travelling outside her body and ascending to other stages of reality.

By the sky containing the zodiacal signs.

-- Quran 85:1

This verse is a clear reference, even as oath, invoking the entire zodiac. It is impossible to say that astrology has no place in Islam when the Quran is so replete with references to astrology.

And we certainly placed the zodiacal signs in the heavens and we beautified them to the lookers [i.e. astronomers].

15:16

The Bible also refers to astrological principles and much of the wisdom of the Bible is coded in language that is impossible to decipher without an understanding of astrology.

Each "son of Israel" is a code for an astrological sign. For example, the Genesis says "Judah shall be a lion." This refers to the sign Leo.

The New Testament speaks of "signs in the sun, moon and the stars." Not only is this a prophecy of the coming of Islam -- whose emblem is the Sun, Moon and Star -- but it is also an indication of the importance of astrology in comprehending Jesus' work and mission.

Ezekiel, Daniel and the Book of Revelation speak of "beasts" or four "living creatures" who are symbols of Taurus, Aquarius, Scorpio and Leo. The "morning star," Lucifer, referred to in Isaiah, is a reference to the planet Venus and the destructive effects a negatively expressed Venus can have on the individual.

The "animals" Adam named in Genesis refer to the circle of animals or zodiac.

$6 \times 6 \times 6 = 126$ .

$1 \times 2 \times 6 = 12$  the number of zodiacal signs

Because the zodiac is a "circle of animals," another name for zodiacal influences is "the beast." The purpose of initiation is to learn to master or control this "inner beast." So the Quran says of Joseph:

Oh my father, I saw eleven planets and the Sun and the Moon. I saw them prostrating themselves to me.

-- Quran 12:4

The purpose of initiation is to make the entire zodiac -- as reflected in the body-mind-spirit complex -- submit to the higher nature or divine nature that's within man.

Joseph represented one planet and his brothers eleven more. This is an indication that at one time, the solar system was comprised of twelve planets which ruled the 12 signs. For more information, see my "Why Does Muhammad and Any Muslim Murder the Devil?" Yusuf represents the Sufic wisdom that enables one to master the zodiac.

Each of the twelve signs falls under one of four elements. There are actually five elements, but Western spiritual systems are generally limited to four: Earth, Air, Fire and Water. Earth signs (Taurus, Virgo and Capricorn) are considered practical and materialistic. Air signs (Gemini, Aquarius and Libra) are considered to be intellectual. Water signs (Cancer, Scorpio and Pisces) are considered to be emotional and Fire signs (Aries, Leo and Sagittarius) are considered to be passionate and energetic.

In Chinese astrology, Air is called Metal and Spirit (the 5th sign) is called Wood.

Master Mantak Chia wrote: "The Taoists observed that Yin and Yang interactions universally follow five basic patterns, which came to be known as the Five Processes of Energy (or Five Phases or Five Forces). Such interactions have been erroneously translated as five elements, thereby confusing the process with the actual physical elements. In Taoism the physical elements found in nature symbolically express the motion of the Five Processes of Energy. Thus fire represents energy rising; water represents energy sinking; wood represents energy expanding; metal represents energy solidifying; and earth represents stable or centered energy. Each of the Five Processes of Energy depends on the interactions of Yin and Yang emanating from the primordial void." (Awaken Healing Light of the Tao).

The five elements are embedded secretly in the "five solar salaah" prayers that Muslims are to make each day.

Fajr (dawn) accords with fire (energy rising)
Dhur (noon) accords with wood (energy expanding)
'Asr (afternoon) accords with metal (energy solidifying)
Maghrib (sunset) accords with water (energy sinking)
'Isha (night) accords with Earth (stable energy)

Islam is a scientific spiritual system that cannot be understood and mastered without an understanding of the wisdom systems that are spread around the world because the Quran is the book that is the summary of the revelations to all nations before Muhammad and is a message to all nations.

Prophet Muhammad said: "Seek knowledge even far away as China."

Kalimat Shahadat: Witness the Letters
The First Pillar of Islam

Laa ilaaha illa Allah

The Book of Revelation (Injiyl) teaches that no one was worthy to loosen the seven seals off the scripture except a Lamb who was slain from the foundations of the earth.

And I saw in the right hand of him that sat on the throne a book written within and on the backside, sealed with seven seals.

-- Revelation 5:1

The "book" is the totality of all scriptures of all the world's religions. All these books or scriptures are sealed.

What is meant by "sealed?" It means that they are deliberately written in code language so that the wicked and the ignorant could not decipher them until "the fullness of time."

The scriptures were never intended to be understood by "the average Joe." They were and are sacred (secret) texts that only the initiates could properly read after many years of training and testing. That is why Prophet Muhammad, before his initiation into the ancient wisdom, told the archangel Gabriel "I cannot read." It is a mistake to think that Prophet Muhammad could not read simple language. His being an "ummi," i.e., unlettered, is metaphoric.

Muhammad ibn Abdullah has been an international businessman for more than 15 years before he was anointed a prophet. He conducted business in Syria, Babylon, Jerusalem, Egypt, Ethiopia and other countries on behalf of his wife, Khadijah. Is it realistic to believe that he conducted large scale financial undertakings, including negotiating contracts and long-term transactions, without being able to read and write the very contracts he negotiated?

The above verse of Revelation says the book (i.e., the full library of revealed scriptures) was written "within and on the backside."

That is saying that there is an inner meaning, a secret interpretation of the scriptures as well as a misleading meaning for lay people who stumble upon the writings without proper training.

The common understanding the world possesses of the Quran, Bible, Upanishads, Vedas, Bhaga Vad Gita, Egyptian Pert em Hru and all other books is the "backside" misunderstanding.

There are seven levels of wisdom for each scriptural book. These seven levels are governed by seven spirits or seven planetary powers. In other words, there are seven levels of codes or "seven seals."

And I saw a strong angel proclaiming with a loud voice,
Who is worthy to open a book, and to loose the seven seals thereof?

-- Revelation 5:2

The "I" of the above verse is actually Paul, writing under the alias "John." Paul was historically known as Apollonius of Tyana. A hint of this is provided in Acts where it states that Paul was called Apollo.

Apollo was Paul's Roman name and it means "Sun." Paul is a shortened form of Apollo. One of Paul's earlier names was "Saul." Saul means "Sol," another name of the Sun.

Paul traveled to India where he discovered and rewrote "The Initiation of the Anointed Iesous," a yoga scroll that depicted the kundalini initiation of Jesus Christ when he was mastering kundalini yoga. At that time, in that place, Jesus was known as Krishna ("our Christ"). That scroll became later called the Apocalypse and is currently titled Revelation.

The formally educated, the theologians and "mainstream" rabbis, imams, ministers and reverends are not worthy to open the book (the library of spiritual science texts).

"Opening the book" means to make its inner wisdom public. The mainstream theologians lack the knowledge to remove the codes that serve to seal the scriptures.

We may properly wonder why such eminent men and women are deemed unworthy? Unfortunately, in learning to become theologians, they were caught up in a Catch-22. The very education and indoctrination they underwent acted as a kind of brainwashing so that they have brought into the "backside" a red herring meaning of the scriptures. Their minds are locked into the camouflage. The few who are initiated in one of the secret orders cannot reveal what they've learned because they had to take a vow of silence (a vow to keep the secret (sacred) understanding from the "profane," i.e., the masses).

Added to that sorry state of affairs is the reality that established theologians in the mainstream of "Religion, Inc." are "bought and paid for" by the church, synagogue or mosque corporation under whose auspices they operate. Were they to espouse publicly anything other than "the party line," they would suddenly find themselves unemployed and at risk of losing the comfortable lifestyles provided clergymen and scholars who know how to behave themselves.

Consequently, the unfortunate theologians, esteemed though they may be, are considered unworthy to open the book or to remove the codes (seals) from it.

And no man in heaven, nor in earth, neither under the earth, was able to open the book, neither to look thereon.

-- Revelation 5:3

"Man," in the above verse, means mainstream scholar. Neither those in religion ("heaven"), in public ministries ("earth") or even in the secret societies ("under the earth") is able to open (publicize) the book or even acknowledge the truth that's contained ("look thereon") within it.

And I wept much, because no man was found worthy to open and to read the book, neither to look thereon.

-- Revelation 5:4

The mass insanity, schizophrenia, dissatisfied, grieved, angered, violent and self-destructive condition human society has plagued itself with is a result of the inability of "men" to properly decode the healing wisdom in the scripture. And if they cannot decode it, then it is impossible to correctly apply it. It is this sorrowful state of the world that is meant by the passage, "I wept much" in the verse quoted above.

And one of the elders saith unto me,
Weep not: behold, the Lion of the tribe of Juda, the Root of David, hath prevailed to open the book, and to loose the seven seals thereof.

-- Revelation 5:5

The Lion of Juda symbolizes one who has mastered the solar force which lies in the root chakra, the muladhara, and is able to activate it using pleasure-based (tantric) life force intensification procedures.

The Lion is a symbol of Leo and Leo is ruled by the Sun. David, which means "beloved," symbolizes here the male pleasure principle redirected from the root chakra (energy field) up the spinal canal.

And I beheld, and, lo, in the midst of the throne and of the four beasts, and in the midst of the elders, stood a Lamb as it had been slain, having seven horns and seven eyes, which are the seven Spirits sent forth into all the earth.

-- Revelation 5:6

The one worthy to open the book would receive his wisdom not from formal training in a theological cemetery (I mean seminary), but via meditation. The throne is a symbol of meditation. This symbol came from ancient Egypt where the goddess Isis (Auset) was the symbol of meditative trance. "Auset" means seat or throne. In Qaballah wisdom, trance meditation is called "Yesod" (seat or foundation).

The four beasts are Taurus, Scorpio, Leo and Aquarius. For a complete explanation of the four beasts, order my book Why Does Muhammad & Any Muslim Murder the Devil? It is available for $4.95 from UB & US Communications Systems, Inc. 912 W. Pembroke Ave., Hampton, VA 23669.

The symbol for Amen, in Egypt, was a Ram on a sacrificial alter. Later, just the alter was used.

The Ram symbolized the sexual function, especially the urge to ejaculate. "Sacrificing" the Ram was a metaphor for sublimating the sexual creative urge and, via many procedures, raising it to a very high level.

So the Aries/Mars ejaculatory urge was "slain" and then "reborn" and thus a person attained the Amen level of hetep (peace) and power.

Some Egyptian icons showed the Lamb on the cross. This was later transferred to Christians who displayed Jesus on the cross and nicknamed him "the Lamb of God."

Mastery of the sexual function qualifies one to "read the Book."

And his brightness was as the light; he had horns coming out of his hand: and there was the hiding of his power.

-- Habakkuk 3:4

This Lamb would hide his awesome power. The "horns" or forces in his hands represents the ability to activate the acupuncture chakra centers in the hand and to cause corresponding energy responses in the physical planet itself.

Yet he hid his power so that mankind would have the opportunity to repent, not from fear, but out of a willingness, nay, an eagerness, to do the right thing.

The Lamb's seven eyes are his full mastery of the seven chakras. The seven horns are the sound vibrations (mantric words of power called a trumpet in other passages) which evoke the Shekinah (shakti) power.

These seven energies (spirits) go throughout the Lamb's entire body ("all the earth") so even if his physical hands are amputated, it is too late to negate his power.

And he came and took the book out of the right hand of him that sat upon the throne.

-- Revelation 5:7

Notice that the Lamb didn't politely request the book. Rather he boldly stepped forward and took the book. This represents the seizure of power over the dissemination of the scientific religious wisdom.

The Holy Quran is a summation, in a condensed form, of the wisdom contained in all previous scriptures. It is not an Arab book or a "black" book or a "white" book, nor is it a book that's simply for people who call themselves Muslims. The Quran is "a message to all nations" and is equally for white people, black people, Chinese people, Indian people, Jewish people, Sabian people, Buddhist people, Hindu people and Christian people.

However, the Quran, like the full library of revelation, is not correctly interpreted by mainstream scholars.

The Quran is the scriptural revelation given to Prophet Muhammad by the archangel

Gabriel. However, it was not written by Gabriel, it was revealed by Gabriel. Does this actually mean that a ghostly figure brought the Quran to Muhammad chapter after chapter?

In former times such a Sunday school understanding of the wisdom tradition may have been adequate. However, in the face of the horrible condition of the world and the disunity among peoples, a "unified field" understanding of scripture is necessary if we are to survive.

Gabriel is the archangel of the 9th Sphere of the Tree of Life, Yesod. In saying that Gabriel brought down the revelation, the Quran is indicating that the revelation was made possible because of Muhammad's remarkable ability to induce trance.

Say: Whoever became an enemy to Gabriel -- for surely he brought it down to him upon your heart by the permission of Allah, a confirmation of what is between your hand (i.e in front of you) and a guidance to the believers.

-- Quran 2:97

Meditation "expands thy breast" so that the meditator is able to receive the Book of Allah on his heart (i.e., according to his moral capacity).

But if Muhammad didn't write the Quran and if Gabriel is not the author of it, then who wrote the Quran?

A much maligned Lesson of the Nation of Islam asks:

Who made the Holy Quran or Bible, how long ago?

Answer: The original people who is Allah, the supreme being or black man of Asia.

More than a few Muslims scoff at the Honorable Elijah Muhammad's explanation of the authorship of the Quran. I humbly ask them to look again and to try to look without prejudice.

Here is what the Quran itself says about the authorship of all the scriptures (including the Quran):

- 11. It is indeed a message of instruction.
- 12. Therefore let whoso will, keep it in remembrance.
- 13. (It is) in Books held (greatly) in honour.
- 14. Exalted (in dignity), kept pure and holy.
- 15. (Written) by the hands of scribes --

16. Remarkable and Pious and Just.

-- Quran 80:11-17

Yusuf Ali Translation

The Quran was "written by the hands of scribes." These "scribes" are not the ordinary human secretaries Muhammad employed to write down his trance channelled utterances for these books are "exalted," i.e., found on the heavenly spiritual planes. These scribes are higher beings.

The Honorable Elijah Muhammad was not teaching an understanding contrary to that of the Quran itself when he stated that the Quran was written by "the original people who is Allah, the supreme being or black man of Asia." The worst he can be criticized for is an improper use of the verb to be.

There are four Qaballistic worlds or planes (dimensions). To fully comprehend Elijah Muhammad's "mathematic theology" a working knowledge of the sacred (secret) wisdom would be invaluable.

The four worlds of the Qaballah are Assiah, Yetzirah, Briyah and Atziluth. "Asia," in Elijah Muhammad's theology, is code for the Qaballistic world Assiah.

Assiah starts at the physical universe and extends to the lower part of the Astral Plane. In essence, Elijah Muhammad was saying that Quranic writing descends to human consciousness from the spiritual realm. this accords with Prophet Muhammad's ascension to the heavenly planes during the Night Journey. At one point on the journey the Prophet reported of hearing the scratching of the pens of those who wrote the Book of Allah.

"Black man" is code for the deep state of mind where there is no movement of thought in the consciousness. The absence of movement is metaphorically "black" because without movement nothing, not even light, can propagate. The mind here comes to rest, the stillness that is the goal of meditation is achieved. This is the state of consciousness that yogis refer to as Samadhi.

O soul that is at rest!
Return to your Lord,
well pleased, well pleasing.
So enter through My slaves.
And enter My garden.

-- Quran 89:27-30

Samadhi is also mentioned in the famous "Ikhlaas" chapter:

Say: He is Allah Unified
Allah is the Samad [i.e., the Undifferentiated state of Being].
It never reproduced (Itself) and
It was never reproduced.
And nothing could ever become an equal to It.

-- Quran 112:1-4

The Arabic "Samad" is the same technical word as the yogic "Samadhi." When the meditator achieves this superconscious state the supreme life force (Allah) is unified and he recognizes or realizes that one life permeates all that is. This consciousness is of everything for everything is an expression of the One. Nothing but Itself exists, it never reproduced and it cannot be reproduced because it is All That Is.

It is important for students of the Quran to learn to read it in Arabic because significant passages of the existing popular English translations are incorrectly translated.

Without a correct understanding of some very technical terms, the very root and foundation of the world's understanding of al-Islam will remain flawed.

With all due respect, I must make it clear that the very core understanding extant about Islamic principles is incorrect. Even the five pillars of Islam are inadequately and improperly understood.

The kalimat shahadat is more than a simple declaration of faith.

Salaat is more than just a prayer.

Zakaat is more than just charity.

Siyaam is more than mere fasting during Ramadan or at any other time.

Hajj means more than pilgrimage to Mecca or any other holy city.

And when Abraham and Ishmael raised the foundations of the House.

-- Quran 2:127

The very foundation of the understanding of al-Islam is in need of repair even as Father Abraham and Ishmael repaired the House and raised its foundations.

We are engaged in repairing the House of Islam, raising its very foundations. The time has come for the faith to be revived and renewed.

The former system simply does not work! How can I make such a statement? Well, the Quran says that Muhammad is the pattern for the believers to form themselves after. If the system as we presently possess it worked, there would be many, many people just like Muhammad. Islam has been taught as an organized religion for over 1500 years. There are currently one billion Muslims alive in the world and many more billions who have died. yet in all those billions, Islam has failed to produce a single Muhammad since the death of Prophet Muhammad.

That is why I can make the statement that the system doesn't work. Bring me 10 Muhammads. Bring me five. Bring me one man who is equal to Muhammad and I will stop and say "Islam works." But if you cannot, then please recognize that we must do our best, by Allah's permission, to raise the foundations of the house.

Allah! There is no god But He -- the Living, the Self-subsisting, Eternal. No slumber can seize Him nor sleep. His are all things in the heavens and on earth. Who is there can intercede in His presence except as he permitteth?
He knoweth what (appeareth to His creatures as)
Before or After or behind them.
Nor shall they compass aught of His knowledge except as He willeth.
His Throne doth extend over the heavens and the earth, and He feeleth no fatigue in guarding and preserving them for He is the Most High, the Supreme (in glory).

-- Quran 2:255

Yusuf Ali Translation

The esteemed scholar Yusuf Ali translated the first part of the above verse: "Allah! There is no god but He." This is translated from the Arabic words, "Allah laa ilaaha illa huwa." This is slightly modified in the kalimat shahadat (public testimony) as it is currently understood: "Laa ilaaha illa Allah," which is translated "There is no god but Allah."

This statement forms perhaps the most important statement in all of Islam. Yet even this statement is understood and translated incorrectly.

And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free.

-- John 8:32

Arabic nouns end with a tanwin. Depending upon whether the statement is in the genitive, nominative or accusative case, the tanwin is transliterated "in," "un," or "an." That is illustrated in such statements as "Muhammad-an Rasulullah."

If the word ilaaha was to be translated "god" then it would have to be a noun and it would also have to have a tanwin suffix.

You must learn to use the language in its proper terms in order to gain some benefit for self.

-- Master Fard Muhammad

"Ilaaha" is not a noun in Quran 2:255, it's a verb. As such, the sentence cannot be properly translated "there is not god but He" because god is a noun and ilaaha lacks a tanwin.

The correct translation is "Allah! Nothing deifies except He."

This corrected translation suddenly gives us a horse of an entirely different color.

Jesus taught that "Ye are all gods, children of the most high." The depth science of all scripture is that man can potentially become a "true and living god." The Sufis indicated the same when they would declare, "Ana-1-haqq," which means "I am the Truth." (Haqq is one of the 99 Names of Allah).

For declaring this truth many Sufis were murdered by those who didn't understand.

There came to you Messengers before me, with Clear Signs and even with what ye ask for: why then did ye slay them, if ye speak the truth?

-- Quran 3:183

Many are the messengers of the Lord who are crucified by fanatics who, out of ignorance, think they are justified in killing righteous women and men.

Father, forgive them; for they know not what they do.

-- Luke 23:34

For teaching that "I and the Father are one" and that "ye are all gods," Jesus was stoned.

Why is this knowledge so upsetting? Why do ignorant men reject it out of hand without investigation or even attempt to experience what would be the greatest blessing a human could receive? Why is the revelation of the potential of humanity not a cause for rejoicing?

When human beings are confronted with the reality of their divine potential, they are forced to stop blaming their misfortunes upon others. There is something fundamentally flawed in humanity that causes us to wish to place blame on others. Even in the Genesis myth, Adam didn't own up to his disobedience is eating from the tree of good and evil. Rather, when confronted with his disobedience, he said, "The woman you gave me told me to eat it."

Most of us would rather blame others instead of realizing that we have the full potential to create our personal universe as we will. In fact, the universe in which we live is a reflection of our own beliefs, ideas, feelings, emotions, aspirations and thoughts.

The masses are afraid of the responsibility (the ability to respond) which potential divinity awakens them to and the ruling bodies fear that people who realize their inner divinity will cease to allow them to exploit and oppress them for their own ego gratification.

The revelation that "ye are all gods" forces us to get up and do something for ourselves. Most people would prefer to sacrifice their birthright for the false comfort of being "taken care of" by some tyrant who is usually just as ignorant as the people he oppresses.

"Laa ilaaha illa Huwa." Who is Huwa? Huwa (also called Hu, Hua, Hum and Hunt) is the great divine intelligence known to the ancient Egyptians as Tuhuti. Some esoteric Jews refer to Him as "O He!"

The divine intelligence deifies, it transforms animalistic man into divine man. Huwa turns "sinful flesh" into flesh divine.

The first pillar of Islam is Kalimat Shahadat. Until now, Kalimat Shahadat has been explained as "openly bearing witness that there is no God but Allah."

The Arabic word "Kalimat" means "Letters." The Arabic word "Shahadat" means "Witness."

Then Adam learned Letters from his Lord.

-- Quaran 2:31

Kalimat Shahadat means to "Witness the Letters." But what are the Letters that initiates are supposed to witness and what does it mean to witness?

There is witness by sense of feeling, by hearing and by sight. As the Quran says, "Ye shall see it with certainty of sight" ('ayn al-yagin).

The Letters that initiates must witness are the 14 Mystic Letters (al-Mugatta'aat) that open 29 Surahs of the Quran. Each Letter represents a sound vibration that's called a bija (seed mantra) in yoga. These sounds are the 14 root sounds which represent the primary aspects of the solar force that the ancient Egyptians called the 14 Kay (Transformations) of Ra. They are expressed in the earth and in the body as seven planetary powers which have two main modes: attraction and repulsion.

The initiate learns to feel the energies represented by these sounds. Later she learns to hear them. At a later stage of development she learns to see them "with certainty of sight." It is only at this point that she can truly express the Kalimat Shahadat and here that she has fulfilled the first pillar of al-Islam.

The 14 Letters are imbedded in chakras (energy centers) located beneath the skin on the 14 finger segments of your right hand. For example, upon the index finger are the Letters Alif Laam and Mim (A.L.M.) and when the Muslim raises his finger in greeting, he is actually saying, "Alif Laam Mim, I have mastered these Letters and can now read the Book of Allah (the Akashic Record)."
